

CHARITY FOUNDER AWARDED AN OBE

By Kim Inam

kim.inam@nlhnews.co.uk

CHARITY founders, health professionals and members of the television industry have been recognised for their altruistic work in the New Year's Honours list.

Rafaat Mughal, from Wood Green, founder and director of the Jan Trust, was awarded an OBE for services to disadvantaged women and the community in Haringey.

The group was established after streams of women began visiting Mrs Mughal's home looking for advice. When she set up the trust 25 years ago, she said the main barrier to women at the time was language.

"Once that was removed we realised these women have a lot of ambitions to get jobs or start their own businesses," she said.

As well as courses in ICT, fashion and design to boost people's work prospects, the focus of the trust has turned to health and inequalities, domestic violence and forced marriage.

And this week it announced plans for a training course to help mothers prevent their children being radicalised online.

Mrs Mughal says 50,000 people have come in contact with the trust.

"Women will not go and talk to any organisation and say this is their problem," she added. "They feel we are a part of their own family."

"At the beginning we had women from the Middle East coming through, now we have women from eastern Europe – we are inclusive and bring every community together."

Also recognised by the Queen was Kate Kinninmont, of Muswell Hill, who for the past seven years has been chief executive of Women in Film and Television Ltd. She was awarded an MBE for services to the industry.

Mrs Kinninmont said: "I've worked for many years in the TV industry as a producer for the BBC in Glasgow and, like in so many occupations, women tend not to get to the top and there's not a lot of ethnic diversity."

"It's not that we want special treatment or quotas – our work is to do with giving people the confidence to improve themselves."

Mrs Kinninmont was a volunteer for the organisation before taking on the top job – and she is now invited to take part in parliamentary working groups.

She acknowledged that many people work freelance and that the job market is getting harder.

"All of us have to think there is not a big headmaster out there looking after our careers – you have to look out for yourself, manage your career and keep up to date."

"I grew up in a council house in Glasgow, I never imagined that I would get an MBE. I'm 64 and I'm not ready to retire until the job is done."

Also joining the OBE ranks is Peter Lothar Owen, of Hornsey, founder of Peter Owen Publishers. He has been awarded his honour for services to literature.

Another person awarded an OBE was chief executive of the pharmaceutical services negotiating committee, Susan Elizabeth Sharpe, of Highgate, for services to the industry.

Professor Elizabeth Mary Rouse, of Muswell Hill, the former head of London College of Communication and deputy rector of the University of the Arts, was recognised for services to higher education with an OBE.

A neighbour, Professor Dilys Morgan, was awarded an MBE for services to health protection as the head of the department for gastrointestinal, emerging and zoonotic infections at Public Health England.

Dr Heather Susan MacKinnon, a former consultant general paediatrician at the Whittington Hospital, in Magdala Avenue, Archway, was also awarded an MBE for services to paediatrics, child health and protection.

SATs levels soar at primary academies

TWO primary schools that have been brought under the wing of an academy chain have seen pupils' academic achievements soar.

The Harris Primary Academy Coleraine Park, in Glendish Road, Tottenham, and Harris Primary Academy, in Philip Lane, Tottenham, were both taken over by the Harris Federation in September 2012 as part of the government's drive to raise the attainment of primary schools.

Coleraine Park saw 70 per cent of pupils achieve the expected level in the 3Rs during last summer's SATs exams, up 23 per cent from 2012. The Philip Lane academy saw 75 per cent of six-year-olds pass the phonics check this year, up from 36 per cent in 2012, while the number of pupils gaining their expected level in SATs rose by 11 per cent in reading (to 78 per cent) and 12 per cent in maths (to 81 per cent).

Teenagers stabbed

FOUR men have been arrested after two teenagers were stabbed during a fight in Tottenham.

Police, including firearms officers, were called to Ruskin Road at 12.30am on Sunday following reports of a large-scale fight as well as possible gunshots.

They discovered two 16-year-old boys suffering from stab wounds.

Both were taken to an east London hospital for treatment. One has since been discharged while the other remained in a serious but stable condition as we went to press.

Officers from the Met's Trident Gang Crime Command are leading the investigation and anyone with information should call police on 101 or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Audit report prompts changes in school data protection processes

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

THE council and a primary school have pledged to change their processes after an audit committee report revealed two separate "high-risk" data protection issues.

The audit and risk management report, which will be presented to the audit committee tomorrow, reveals that the council set up insufficient data protection controls at Hazelbury Infant School, in Haselbury Road, Edmonton.

The report identifies "high-risk" findings related to the management of petty cash, retention of records for the children's centre and the security of data", and says that "the school has accepted the findings of the audit and agreed an action plan to implement recommendations to improve control".

However, Enfield Council was quick to stress that the "risk factors" had been resolved.

Stressing that the audit committee serves schools and other local authority bodies by highlighting factors before they become bigger issues that could place people at risk, a council spokesman added: "We take information and financial security very seriously, which is why we have a robust and vigorous audit regime at Enfield Council designed to identify and deal with any issues as they arise.

"Schools are responsible for their own compliance with the Data Protection Act. As such, the council's role is to support and advise if the school requests it."

The audit committee also flagged up issues relating to third-party access to IT systems throughout the local authority. According to the report, some council accounts were set to remain active indefinitely.

The council spokesman acknowledged that it had been identified as an area of risk but insisted: "The audit regarding third-party access related to IT supplier support accounts which hadn't been closed down properly.

"We have now revised our processes to ensure that this can no longer happen."

Waste site will shut for a week

AFTER all the Christmas recycling and rubbish has been deposited, the borough's dump and recycling hub will be closed for a week next month for maintenance.

The Barrowell Green Household Waste and Recycling Centre, in Winchmore Hill, will be closed for a week from February 4 while essential repair work to the weigh bridge takes place.

The £25,000 refurbishment will ensure that there is an accurate record of the amount of waste collected at the dump – a legal requirement – and to ensure that contractors are charged accurately.

In the meantime, residents will be able to use mini-recycling sites located across the borough for small electrical devices, textiles and mixed dry recycling.

They are at Tesco, in Savoy Parade, Enfield Town; Tesco, in High Street, Ponders End; Co-Op unity superstore, in Hertford Road, Enfield Lock; Morrisons, in Aldermans Hill, Palmers Green; Morrisons, in Southbury Road, Ponders End; and Sainsbury's, in Floreys Square, Highlands Village.

The council has said residents can also use facilities in Barnet, Tottenham and Chingford.

Cabinet member for environment Chris Bond said: "These works are crucial in ensuring this site continues to provide a high-quality service to our residents and play a vital role in helping us to manage our waste for years to come."

Pair rewarded with MBEs in New Year's Honours list for their work educating young people

ANNE-MARIE SANDERSON

ROB BOURNE

Honoured to help youngsters

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

TWO people who are passionate about the power of education have been recognised in the New Year's Honours list for their achievements.

Kevin McLoughlin, founder of K&M McLoughlin Decorating Ltd, has been awarded an MBE for services to skills and training after his firm was responsible for setting up the first dedicated decorating apprentice training facility in the UK in 2010.

The father-of-five, of Queen Anne's Place, Bush Hill Park, admits he was gobsmacked when he found out he had been given the royal seal of approval because the first he heard about the gong was not in the usual way of opening a sealed, mysterious envelope, but instead with a rather abrupt email marked "urgent" that popped into his inbox from the cabinet office at the beginning of December.

"The email said they needed a response to the letter they had sent. I said: 'What letter?' and then they sent me a copy of the letter and swore me to secrecy," the 56-year-old told the Advertiser.

Mr McLoughlin admits that while he has never given awards and honours much thought in the 25 years he has been running the business with his wife Maxine, his family are thrilled with the chance of a day out at Buckingham Palace.

He added: "It is wonderful, and especially considering where I come from, my background, if my mum could see this then she would be over the moon."

Similarly passionate about setting young people on the road to success is Sacha Corcoran, deputy director for learners and partnerships at City and Islington College. The mum-of-two has been made an MBE in recognition for her work in further education with teenagers.

The 43-year-old, of Oakfield Road, Southgate, explained that her passion for helping teenagers scale the dizzying heights of academia stems from her own experiences struggling to support her family.

"I was homeless at 16 and pregnant, living in a hostel for two years, and in my work with young people I use my experience of being a teenager off the rails and turning it around," she said.

Sacha is undaunted by the prospect of a day at the palace.

"My fashion graduate son has promised to be my stylist for the day," she added. "So I will have the best help looking the part at least."

Regal recognition: Both Sacha Corcoran and Kevin McLoughlin have been made MBEs

Teen knocked down as she crossed road

A TEENAGER remains in a serious condition in hospital after being hit by a car on Sunday evening.

It happened as the 18-year-old woman was crossing Windmill Hill, Enfield, at the pedestrian crossing outside Enfield Chase railway station, at about 7.50pm.

She was treated at the scene by paramedics for a serious head injury and was taken by ambulance to the Royal London Hospital, in Whitechapel, east London.

The driver of the car did not stop at the scene of the collision.

Officers from the Collision Investigation Unit are asking anyone with information to contact them on 020 8597 4874.

Council vows to do more to fight serious youth violence

SERIOUS youth violence in Enfield has remained at a similar level for the third year running, but the council admits that more needs to be done to keep young people safe.

Home Office figures released by the London Probation Trust on Monday revealed that while the number of wounding incidents among 10 to 19-year-olds in Enfield increased from nine to 22 between 2011/12 and 2012/13, the number of grievous bodily harm incidents went down from 29 to 25 over the same period.

During 2010/11, Enfield witnessed 20 wounding incidents and 30 cases of grievous bodily harm.

But following the deaths of 19-year-old Mohammed Hussein in Edmonton and 17-year-old Joshua Folkes in Palmers Green last year, Enfield Council admitted more needs to be done.

Christine Hamilton, cabinet member for community well-being, said: "I'm pleased that there has been a reduction in GBH in the borough since 2010/11.

"However, we must not be complacent and more remains to be done to keep our young people safe and deal quickly and firmly with those who feel they can bring violence and chaos onto our streets whenever they want to.

"We work closely with young people, schools and families to encourage young people to make the right choices in life, reject a violent lifestyle and offer help to anyone keen to escape the damaging influence of gangs."

Between September and December, officers from Enfield Police and the Met's Trident Gang Command executed a total of 46 warrants and made 155 arrests in Enfield, 105 of which were of known gang members.

The raids came as part of a three-month

Unscheduled visit: Police make an arrest during a raid in Edmonton last month operation which has seen Trident officers join forces with the Enfield Gangs Unit.

Paul Healy, of the Enfield Gangs Unit, said: "Enfield Police will continue to work with our partners to reduce incidents of gang violence through intervention and enforcement.

"We will provide advice and support to those wishing to leave a gang lifestyle and actively target those who chose not to.

"This is evident from the recent operation conducted in the borough that saw a substantial number of gang members arrested, charged and prosecuted for the supply of class drugs."

Crash victims were on their way home after showing modified cars

By Daniel O'Brien

daniel.obrien@nlhnews.co.uk

THE brother of a man who died along with his nephew and a friend in a car crash on the North Circular Road just before Christmas has paid tribute to the "kind and caring" group.

Haider Qureshi, 28, from Colindale, Jawad Qureshi, 28, from Harrow, and Toheed "Tee" Robani, 34, from Willesden, all in north-west London, were killed after the Subaru Impreza, which was being driven by Jawad, and a lorry collided in Bowes Road, Palmers Green.

All three men were inside the car when it caught fire.

On Monday, Haider's brother Asad revealed that his sibling, who was married with a five-year-old son, had been promoted recently to duty manager at Halfords, while Jawad was due to be married in the spring.

He said that the three had been returning home from an unofficial car show in Enfield, where people get together to display their modified vehicles, at the time of the tragedy.

He said: "They weren't careless drivers, they were responsible drivers.

Tribute: Flowers at the scene of the tragedy on the North Circular Jawad was getting married in two months. I don't think he would put his own life at risk, let alone anyone else.

"Nothing has affected me like this. I can't even think about going to work. I didn't even know when Christmas started.

"I have a large extended family and it has brought all of us together in a way. It is three families that have been affected, not just one."

Paying tribute to his relatives and close friend, he said: "Haider was a really good dad. He was a really, really helpful, genuine person. He was always bubbly no matter what.

"Tee was my friend. He was a lovely person as well, always smiling. Even when he was not in the best place, he was always smiling. Jawad was a bubbly person, always genuinely kind and caring."

A post-mortem established that the cause of Jawad's and Haider's deaths was multiple injuries. Toheed's cause of death was reported as head injuries.

The driver of the lorry suffered minor injuries.

A Vauxhall Astra was also involved in the collision, which happened near the junction with Natal Road shortly before 12.30am on December 23.

Two men taken to hospital suffering from minor injuries were discharged and arrested on suspicion of causing death by dangerous driving. Both have been bailed until late February.

Flat fire toll rises as girl's gran dies

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

THE grandmother of a four-year-old victim of a fire that tore through a flat in Edmonton has also died of the injuries she sustained in the blaze which claimed the life of her granddaughter.

Colleen Springer, 50, of Solomon Avenue, died in hospital on December 23 of organ failure as a result of carbon monoxide inhalation suffered after the fire broke out in her ground-floor flat on the afternoon of December 19.

Her granddaughter, four-year-old Tamiyah-Rose Springer, was pronounced dead at the scene after fire and ambulance crews were called at 5.15pm.

The young girl, who lived with her mother in Hornsey, north London, was being looked after by her grandmother that day, according to reports.

Woman given suspended prison sentence for buying mobile phone used by soldiers' killers

A WOMAN convicted of the 1973 Old Bailey bombing in London has been given a suspended sentence for helping the Real IRA claim responsibility for the murder of two British soldiers five years ago.

Marian McGlinchey, also known as Marian Price, from Belfast, admitted buying a mobile phone used by the group following the killing of former Edmonton County School student Patrick Azimkar and Mark Quinsey as they left the Massereene Army barracks in Antrim to collect a pizza delivery in March 2009.

Yesterday, McGlinchey, who had pleaded guilty to buying the mobile, was spared a prison sentence after reports provided to the judge suggested that she was no longer interested in politics and she has range of physical and psychiatric problems which would be aggravated by a jail term.

She was sentenced to 12 months in jail, suspended for three years.

She was also sentenced to nine months in prison, to run concurrently, for aiding and abetting the addressing of a meeting to encourage support for terrorism during a dissident republican rally in Londonderry in April 2011 when she was filmed holding a piece of paper for a masked man as he made a speech in which he issued threats against Catholic police officers.

Last year, Brian Shivers, who was convicted of the soldiers' murders in 2012, had his conviction overturned on appeal.

Muslim row councillor to stand for re-election

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A COUNCILLOR accused of online Islamophobia has spoken of his relief that his "year of hell" is finally over.

The Advertiser can reveal that no criminal charges will be brought against Chris Joannides, a Grange ward councillor, who was kicked out of the Conservative group after comments and images which mocked Muslims appeared on his private Facebook account last year.

He maintained throughout the controversy that the printed-out images of his account were manipulated by a third party as part of an elaborate "political smear campaign" – and he has announced he will be standing for re-election in Grange ward in May after the Enfield Southgate Conservative Association selected him.

His selection is subject to approval by the national Conservative Party, but if he is elected Mr Joannides will be reinstated automatically to the council's Conservative group.

In a statement he told the Advertiser: "I am delighted that the CPS agreed with me that the comments on my Facebook page did not break the law in any way.

"Some of them were not even posted by me and the CPS accepted that modern media is an easy way to conduct a political smear campaign as demonstrated by this incident.

"I am extremely grateful for the support I got from Enfield Southgate Conservative Association, which has stood by me through this terrible episode and the year of hell I have been through.

"I hope to put this behind me and rebuild my good name by rejoining the Conservative group on the council and serving the people of Grange ward," he added.

The council is now expected to conduct an investigation into the incident. "The complaint against Mr Joannides will now be referred to the councillor conduct committee for consideration," said a spokesman.

Healthcare given a £14million boost

Enfield CCG's budget will rise to £336m in April

By Koos Couvee

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

CAMPAIGNERS have welcomed a boost in funding for healthcare commissioners in the borough over the next two years.

Last month, NHS England, which oversees funding for primary care and clinical commissioning groups, announced that in April the budget allocation for the Enfield CCG will increase to £336million, a 4.35 per cent increase on this year's £322m – the fifth highest rise in London.

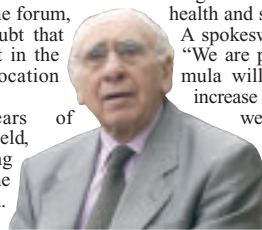

The body, which commissions health services in the borough, is set to receive a further 3.98 per cent increase, or £13.4m, in 2015.

The announcement came as NHS England opted to adopt a new funding formula which it says more accurately reflects population changes, and includes a specific deprivation measure.

Last month, campaigners from the Enfield Over 50s Forum, which lobbies decision makers on issues affecting the elderly, handed in a petition signed by 6,268 people calling for a funding boost, at a meeting of the NHS England board.

Monty Meth, life president of the forum, told the Advertiser: "I've no doubt that our petition played no small part in the top-of-the-range funding allocation awarded by NHS England."

"We highlighted the years of under-funding suffered by Enfield, the population increase, the rising deprivation and inequality in the borough and the ageing population."

People power: Monty Meth

"So a big thank you to the 6,000 people who backed our petition, and don't let anybody tell you that they don't matter."

Alev Cazimoglu, chairwoman of Enfield Council's health and well-being scrutiny panel, welcomed the boost in funding but said it should be seen in the context of last month's downgrade of Chase Farm Hospital, in The Ridgeway, Enfield.

"Enfield has just lost an A&E and maternity department and we have the most underdeveloped primary healthcare in north London," she said.

"We deserve adequate, long-term funding, not just sticking plaster."

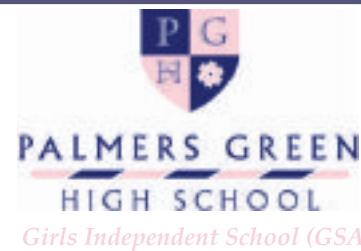

"With Enfield GPs running a deficit and our hospitals under pressure, our scrutiny panel will be watching closely to see just how far this cash goes in delivering promised improvements."

For 2015/16, CCGs will also receive an additional allocation to provide part of their contribution to the government's new Better Care Fund, bringing its total budget to £355.7m.

This fund, which from 2014/15 will be passed directly from NHS England to local authorities, is designed to bring about better integration of health and social care.

A spokeswoman for the Enfield CCG said: "We are pleased that the new funding formula will result in an above inflationary increase in budget. Over the next two years we will continue with our plans to improve local health services."

Environment matters

THE amnesty granted to the Greenpeace activists the Arctic 30 was the best of Christmas presents.

Facing the real prospect of lengthy jail sentences for piracy because they dared to challenge the environmental policies of the Russian government, did they ever regret their actions?

Although their imprisonment was reported widely, mercifully leading to their release, the activists' cause, I thought, received less attention.

Drilling and oil exploration in the Arctic continue apace and their ship, the Arctic Sunrise, remains impounded. At the other pole, another ship hit both ice and headlines. Akademik Shokalskiy, the expeditionary vessel of an Australasian expedition, was trapped on the edge of the far Antarctic.

Much was made, often unflatteringly, of the irony of scientists investigating global warming being stuck in ice. Sceptics even suggested this was "proof" of their views.

Not so. The expedition, named The Spirit of Mawson after the British scientist, and hero, who first explored the southern oceans 100 years ago, is invaluable in building on Douglas Mawson's contribution to our understanding of the ecology and climatology of the southern seas.

Such knowledge enables humankind to fathom the forces that shape global climates and to respond as best we can.

Nearer home, a photography student is missing after misjudging the ferocity of the sea he sought to capture on film. Are risks such as these worth taking? I think so, but I wonder what the armchair sceptics think?

Extra funding needed to restore Broomfield

THE coverage of Broomfield House in the BBC1 programme Restoring England's Heritage on December 5 left no doubt about the need for significant investment to restore the house and reopen it to the community.

It also showed what can be achieved with local support and enough funding when historic properties are restored.

If it can work elsewhere, why should this Grade II* asset at the centre of one of the most popular parks in Enfield continue to lay neglected?

What wasn't reflected in the programme was the significant progress made by Enfield Council and community groups working together.

Positive sections of the interviews with Councillor Del Goddard and David March weren't shown.

Our joint bid for financial support went to the National Heritage Lottery Fund with a staff recommendation for approval. However, the board declined to invest the full £4million we asked for.

The indications are, however, that a revised bid to the London committee would result in an award of about £2m.

With a promised contribution from Enfield of £1m, we need about £3.5m to reach the £6.4m programme costs.

The HLF doesn't want Enfield to contribute additional funds – it wants a wider range of donors to provide the additional funding.

We are now looking for such a donor, or donors, to make significant pledges to help fill the funding gap. Is there such a public spirited source in the borough or with an Enfield connection?

Perhaps one of the companies behind the increasing number of local housing developments, such as in the Southgate Town Hall building, which is adjacent to the park, might consider a contribution through the Broomfield House Trust?

More can be found about the potential benefit of reopening Broomfield House for community use at our website www.broomfieldhouse.org

Colin Younger
Broomfield House Trust

□ THE proposition that Broomfield House should be demolished because the money might be better spent elsewhere seems to me to point to a short-sighted and reactionary impulse.

Even in a time of austerity, we have a vital and indispensable need for the stability and sense of place which indisputably contributes to pride in the community.

Demolishing Broomfield House would not solve the problems of our society – but could arguably contribute to them by removing yet another one of the building blocks which made Palmers Green such an interesting and attractive place to live and to visit.

Previous generations had the foresight to save the parts of our town which we all enjoy, and who can argue that austerity, crisis and competing demands haven't visited us before?

Detachment from our indigenous cultural heritage is a stress line in society and we need to be showcasing what makes our society so attractive – not diluting it and discarding it.

Anyone who remembers the beautiful, fascinating, historical building that was Broomfield House, set in the heart of the park and gardens, would want to see it restored so that our community can once again fully enjoy it.

So what if it had a mock Tudor facade added in the 1920s? A sympathetic restoration would take care of that.

□ FURTHER to Jean Robertson-Molloy's letter, "Demolish Broomfield House" (Advertiser, December 11).

Thank you to kind strangers

OUR family would like to thank everyone who offered support when my 90-year old mother fell in Enfield marketplace and broke her hip on Saturday, December 28.

Members of the public kindly called an ambulance and lent coats and blankets, and the car park attendant provided cushions.

Thanks too to the rapid response paramedic and ambulance team from Tottenham and, of course, the staff at North Middlesex University Hospital A&E and the surgical ward where my mother is recovering from a half-hip replacement.

Happy and healthy new year to all.

Barbara Le Fevre

□ A HUGE thank you to the boys and girls who came to my assistance when I fell in Green Lanes, Palmers Green, on November 22.

They had just alighted from the 329 bus and I think they were from Winchmore Hill School.

Hat's not good

I MADE an infrequent visit to a public house in Enfield and after purchasing a drink I was politely asked to remove my hat.

I asked why and was told it was for CCTV purposes.

Since I was wearing a flat cap in good condition, I felt this was taking security matters a bit too far.

Stolen items recovered

By Koos Couvée

POLICE are appealing for victims of crime to come forward and claim items seized as part of an investigation into a series of burglaries.

A variety of items, including mobile phones, designer jewellery, a gold mouse and a statuette of a gold, jewelled elephant were among the haul which officers recovered at an address in Enfield in October.

Police believe the items were stolen from homes in Enfield, Waltham Forest and Kentish Town. Detective Constable Colin James, who is leading the investigation, said: "Many of these items are unique and we are very keen to return them to their rightful owners."

"We would urge anyone who has been burgled to take a look at the photos."

Pictures of 84 items have been published online and can be viewed at www.flickr.com/metropolitanpolice

Anyone who recognises any of the recovered property is asked to email colin.james2@met.pnn.police.uk or call 020 8345 3353.

People should provide the reference number and name that accompanies the photo of the item, as well as their name, address, telephone number and an email address, if possible.

The items were recovered on October 19 after officers executed search warrants at the Enfield address.

The following day, Corin Vivanti, 20, of Burgundy House, in Bedale Road, Enfield, was charged with multiple offences of residential burglary, handling stolen goods, possession of class B drugs with intent to supply and possessing a controlled drug.

On October 22, Tamer Ahmet, 24, from Chingford, east London, was charged with multiple offences of residential burglary, illegal possession of a firearm and driving while disqualified.

And on November 11, Adem Hassan, 20, of Orpington Road, Winchmore Hill, was charged with conspiracy to burgle.

All three have since been remanded in custody and are due to appear at St Albans Crown Court in March.

Recovered: A

£3.4m homes bonus a drop in the ocean, says housing chief

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

A MULTI-MILLION-POUND boost has been received by Enfield Council for providing new homes – but the money has been branded a “drop in the ocean” by a leading councillor.

The £3.4million New Homes Bonus, intended by the government to reward local authorities that provide newly-built properties, or conversions, or bring empty homes back into use, was awarded to the council just before Christmas.

Under the scheme, which was introduced in 2011, £2bn is being handed out to local authorities in England over 2014/15. There is an extra reward for newly completed affordable homes.

Over the past year, the council has brought 47 properties back into use and has been rewarded for building 1,583 affordable new homes.

Enfield's allocation was the tenth lowest in London, with neighbouring Barnet receiving £8.2m and Haringey netting £5m.

The total amount awarded to the council over four years will be £8,241,000.

Ahmet Oykener, cabinet member for housing, said the figure should be looked at within the broader context of austerity.

In April, it will have been four years since Chancellor George Osborne outlined what for Enfield has meant a total of £80m cuts – a 27 per cent reduction in revenue.

Mr Oykener said: “Of course, any extra money is welcome while our budget continues to be cut by the government. But this money is not ring-fenced to build new homes and it is nowhere near enough to deal with the housing crisis we have in the borough. The government needs to open its eyes and work with local authorities to build the social housing we need.”

Tory councillor Edward Smith, shadow cabinet member for housing, said: “The scheme is proving to be a huge success, with more than £2bn awarded to local authorities, enabling 550,000 new homes to be developed, including 93,000 empty homes being brought back into use and the creation of 160,000 affordable homes.”

The council is expected to make a decision on how the money will be spent in February.

Coming down: These properties in Forty Hill will be demolished to make way for new homes

Council housing chief: Ahmet Oykener

Deadline looms for grants to help with buying a home

By Jonathon Manning
newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

Council tenants can apply for up to £55,000

COUNCIL tenants are being urged to act quickly to secure a grant towards buying their own home.

The government's Grant To Vacate scheme means tenants may be eligible for help towards purchasing their own home if they move from council accommodation before March 14.

Ahmet Oykener, Enfield Council's cabinet member for housing, said: "I cannot stress enough how important it is to get applications in fast. We have funding up to March 14 and want to be sure that we use it.

"It is a great opportunity, so I say to council tenants if you think you qualify for a grant, please contact Enfield Homes."

The scheme assists those living in rented council properties to enter the housing market as well as helping new families who need a home.

Qualifying applicants will receive £40,000 if moving from a one-bedroom property, £50,000 if switching from a two-bedroom home and £55,000 if moving from a property with three or more bedrooms.

Tenants who have been with the council for at least two years will be considered but applicants must prove they are up to date with rent and are unable to afford their own home without the aid of the grant.

Applications will be dealt with on a first-come, first-served basis and interested tenants can visit www.enfieldhomes.org for more information and to download an application form.

Time for a new clock

By Jonathon Manning

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A NEW clock incorporating traditional architecture is set to be built at The Triangle in Palmers Green.

Plans are almost complete for the monument, located at the junction of Aldermans Hill and Green Lanes, after funding was received from Enfield Council's Residents' Priority Fund.

The application for a monument to be placed within The Triangle came from the Green Lanes Business Association, which has taken charge of looking after the area's shopping district, with the aid of the town centre manager of the Enfield Business and Retailers' Association Mark Leaver.

Costas Georgiou, chairman of the GLBA, said: "Having a monument is important as we can use it to guide people who are not from the area to the local shops."

"A clock stands out. It is high and doesn't take up much room as it is the place where every year we put the Christmas tree."

The clock will be built by Dave Plummer, of Triangle Metal Works, and designed by Enfield resident Kareen Cox, owner of Absolutely

Kareen graphic design company. The design will include a number of key architectural elements of the surrounding buildings such as the clock's hexagonal-shaped column and a scroll, which is prevalent on many nearby buildings.

A design used to depict the date 1904 on the HSBC building will be replicated on a disc reading 2014 on the base of the monument.

The clock will also have only three sides, so as to represent The Triangle area.

Ms Cox, who is primarily a print designer, told the Advertiser she felt that the idea of incorporating the architectural ideas from the buildings so that they could be appreciated at ground level was an interesting concept.

Using local businesses has been an important aspect of the project and one about which she feels strongly.

Ms Cox added: "It's really important in helping the community. I think that you do not need to leave the local area for anything you need."

There are still minor alterations to be made to the design and the business associations are asking for feedback from the public by the end of the month.

Overhead power lines damaged after bike is thrown onto train

OFFICERS from British Transport Police are appealing for witnesses after a bicycle was thrown from a bridge onto a train near Enfield Lock railway station.

The incident took place as a Liverpool Street-bound train was approaching the bridge between Standard Road and Bradley Road shortly before 6pm on Monday last week.

A number of overhead power lines were brought down when the bicycle dropped on them before landing on the train. Services were delayed while the bike was removed and passengers were transferred onto a different train while the power lines were fixed.

The bike was taken away by police to be analysed forensically.

Officers suspect it was deliberately dropped onto the train. They have now released images of the bike in a bid to trace the culprits.

Detective Constable Paul Cudby said: "We believe the bicycle was deliberately thrown and dropped onto the train as it passed through."

"Deliberately putting objects onto the railway infrastructure may seem like fun to those who commit such

Obstruction: The bike on the line offences, but what they don't realise are the potentially serious consequences of their extremely foolish behaviour.

"Trains travelling at high speeds risk being damaged or derailed, putting passengers' and rail staff's lives in danger."

"We treat incidents where the line has been obstructed extremely seriously and I'd urge anyone who recognises the bike, or who may have further information about what happened, to come forward."

Anyone with any information can contact BTP on 0800 40 50 40 by texting 61016, quoting incident 296 of 30/12/2013, or call Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

On his bike for Olympic legacy job

By Chris Smith

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

AN Enfield resident has been given the responsibility of managing the legacy of the London 2012 velodrome as it reopens to the public.

Jeremy Northrop has been appointed manager of the Lee Valley VeloPark, at the Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park in Stratford, east London.

It will be the first venue to have four different cycling disciplines in one place, including the velodrome, a remodelled Olympic BMX track, a 1.6km floodlit road circuit and nine kilometres of mountain biking trail.

Jeremy takes charge as VeloPark manager

The 41-year-old has lived in north London all of his life and has had more than 24 years' experience managing community centres, leisure centres and community halls in Enfield and Broxbourne.

Levels of sporting participation since London 2012 have been the source of much discussion, and Mr Northrop believes that attracting youngsters from the area will be a major part of the potential VeloPark legacy.

"Part of our legacy is for the children of the local area and youth to participate in the activities," he said.

"This is so they have actually got something to do in this area. Instead of just hanging around, they've got major opportunities.

"We've got loads of sessions, plenty of clubs coming on board and many taster sessions."

Mr Northrop insists that the VeloPark is going to be a major attraction for the community and for neighbouring areas.

"For me it's just getting as many people into this venue as possible, specifically from the local community," he said. "Hopefully, it will be a major attraction for all the London boroughs and people who live in Essex and Hertfordshire."

With the VeloPark reopening in March, there are already events lined up for the launch.

"We've got the Revolution event on March 14 and 15, which is a really exciting watch," added Mr Northrop.

"We're gearing up for that, and the following week we're doing a bit for Comic and Sports Relief.

"There are going to be some famous people participating in that, so we expect it to be very interesting."

Looking forward to a new job: Jeremy Northrop has been appointed manager of Lee Valley VeloPark

Off licences urged to stop selling super-strength alcohol

OFF licences are being asked to take cheap super-strength alcohol off their shelves for good by police and Enfield Council.

The authorities are asking shops to sign up to the voluntary ban before the end of the month in a bid to tackle crime in the borough's town centres.

The ban, which is thought to be the first of its kind in London, would be on beer, lager or cider with an alcohol content of 6.5 per cent or more.

Stores that do not sign up to the ban, where there are associated problems with alcohol sales, could have their licence reviewed.

That would include formal conditions – including restricting the sale of super-strength booze.

Christine Hamilton, cabinet member for community well-being and public health, said: "This type of alcohol is often sold cheaply and is therefore attractive to young and under-age drinkers and addicts.

"We want to make it much more difficult to obtain this particular type of drink in order to deal with some of the problems excessive consumption can cause and we want off licences to play their part and help us achieve the aim of reducing the health risks, antisocial behaviour and crime associated with excessive drinking."

Cabinet member for environment Chris Bond added: "If retailers choose not to sign up, that's entirely up to them, but we'll take an incredibly dim view of premises which act irresponsibly and we'll take very strong action against those that are unwilling or unable to behave responsibly."

The campaign aims to achieve long-lasting benefits for residents by improving the health of drinkers and reducing the number of unnecessary hospital admissions and early deaths caused by excessive drinking.

It is also bidding to reduce street crime and the fear of antisocial behaviour in the borough.

'Strong action': Chris Bond says the council will come down hard on irresponsible off licences

Dry: Christine Hamilton is taking a break from alcohol this month

'Join me and give up booze'

A LEADING councillor has signed up to the Alcohol Concern dry January challenge – and is urging residents to join in, too.

Christine Hamilton, cabinet member for community well-being and public health, has announced that she is planning to spend the 31 days of this month abstaining from alcohol following the excesses of the Christmas period.

She said: "It's a light-hearted challenge which aims to get across the message that too much alcohol isn't good for you and many people would probably benefit from drinking less.

"I'm signing up and I'd urge as many residents as possible to take part as well and see if they can resist a tipples or two.

"Many people think the way they drink isn't a problem. They may have a few beers after work, or a few glasses of wine in the evening. They don't think this will harm their health – they are just winding down after a hard day at work. But this kind of drinking could store up problems for the future."

Health benefits of the challenge are likely to include better sleep, weight loss, improved skin and hair quality, as well as saving money.

People who regularly drink over the recommended limits are more likely to suffer health problems such as liver disease, heart disease and high blood pressure.

Alcohol is also the second biggest risk factor for oral cancer after smoking.

Anyone who is concerned about their drinking or feels they are dependent on alcohol should speak to their GP or call Drinkline on the freephone number 0800 917 8282.

Consultation on licensing of private landlords launched

TENANTS and homeowners are being asked for their views on proposals to issue licences to landlords.

Enfield Council launched the consultation on Thursday into proposals which would introduce licensing for property owners who rent out their flats and houses on the private market – particularly in areas with high levels of antisocial behaviour.

The council is hoping that the scheme will encourage landlords to respond to complaints about their tenants and visitors to their property, as well as keeping on top of external maintenance and rubbish collections and acting to prevent overcrowding.

The council says that if the scheme is adopted – which could be as early as this autumn – landlords in areas affected by antisocial behaviour will be required to seek a licence before renting their property.

Those who fail to act on complaints against their tenants could see their licences removed.

Cabinet member for housing Ahmet Oyken said: “We are consulting on whether to introduce licensing of private landlords in an effort to reduce antisocial behaviour and we want the views of residents.

“We have not made a decision on whether to proceed with the scheme or not, which is why it is important for as many people as possible to let us know what they think.

“We will consider all the evidence and the responses from residents and landlords before making a final decision on whether or not to proceed.

“If, having considered all the evidence, we think this scheme will work, we will implement it.”

The proposals came about after the council commissioned research and found there was a correlation between the number of rented properties and the location of antisocial behaviour.

The council has already consulted landlords and residents’ associations and is now seeking the views of residents on the licences, which are expected to cost £575.

Details of the consultation, which ends on February 28, can be found on the council’s website at www.enfield.gov.uk

McQueen's masterpiece

Kidnapped: Solomon (Chiwetel Ejiofor) in Steve McQueen's 12 Years a Slave

12 Years a Slave (15, 134 mins)

As a contemporary visual artist, Steve McQueen ploughed his own furrow. He collected the coveted Turner Prize in 1999, ahead of bookies' favourite Tracey Emin, for three pieces including a video work Deadpan in which he recreated the falling house stunt from the Buster Keaton silent film Steamboat Bill Jr.

In 2006, McQueen responded powerfully to the war in Iraq by representing the portraits of fallen British soldiers as a sheet of stamps entitled Queen And Country.

When he made the transition to feature-length films, McQueen was equally uncompromising. His bravura debut Hunger recounted the story of Bobby Sands (Michael Fassbender) through the eyes of fellow Irish Republican prisoners while his incendiary 2011 follow-up, Shame, dealt candidly with sex addiction.

For his third feature, McQueen considers the slave trade from the perspective of a free black man, who was kidnapped in 1841 and suffered 12 years of abuse on the plantations of Louisiana before he was reunited with his loving family. Based on the autobiography of the same name by Solomon Northup and adapted for the screen by John Ridley, 12 Years a Slave is a masterpiece that sears into the retina with every artfully composed frame.

Solomon (Chiwetel Ejiofor) lives with his wife Anne (Kelsey Scott), daughter Margaret (Quvenzhané Wallis) and son Alonzo (Cameron Zeigler). An encounter with two seemingly respectable gentlemen – Messrs Brown (Scoot McNairy) and Hamilton (Taran Killam) – changes Solomon's life forever.

He wakes up in chains and learns he has been sold into slavery.

Theophilus Freeman (Paul Giamatti) takes delivery of Solomon and ignores pleas for leniency, snarling: "My sentimentality stretches the length of a coin."

Solomon's first master, Ford (Benedict Cumberbatch), is kind but fate delivers the lead character to sadistic Edwin Epps (Michael Fassbender). Epps takes a shine to one of the slave girls, Patsey (Lupita Nyong'o), to the chagrin of his unfeeling wife (Sarah Paulson).

Solomon is caught in the crossfire, finding a means to orchestrate escape with the help of an abolitionist called Bass (Brad Pitt), who also believes that "slavery is an evil that should befall none".

12 Years a Slave is the deserved frontrunner for best picture at this year's Oscars and it would be impossible to deny McQueen's film an entire mantelpiece of gold statuettes.

Ejiofor breaks our hearts as an honest, decent man, who retains his humanity in the face of unspeakable cruelty. Nyong'o is equally eye-catching in her big screen debut while Fassbender simmers with rage and self-loathing.

McQueen's directorial brio comes to the fore, memorably in a horrific whipping sequence shot in a single take.

It's not a film that demands repeat viewings – like a sledgehammer to the solar plexus, once is enough. But McQueen's sensitive yet unflinching portrait of suffering will stay with us forever.

Do you want to make a difference in a child's life?

...then foster with us...

Supported Fostering Services is a registered Charity, rated OUTSTANDING by Ofsted, offering extensive training and 24/7 support. We are based in Barnet so are local and accessible to you.

Sadly, for some children their home is not a caring or safe place. There are many different reasons, abuse, neglect, maybe their parents just can't cope and need a break.

These children need a safe caring home, sometimes for a short period, sometimes longer, until their future can be sorted out. We are recruiting for children of all ages.

If you would like more information just give us a ring or come in on one of our information days. Alternatively visit our website or Facebook page.

New centre allows people to discover artistic talents

By Jonathon Manning

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A NEW art centre is opening this weekend at Finchley's Sternberg Centre.

The newly-named Art Stables will showcase its members' work at its launch day on Sunday. The centre in East End Road will hold classes every day and will cater for groups of all ages, with specific sessions designed for children.

Art centre director Lizzie Sturm said: "It's for people who didn't ever believe they could paint or be artistic.

"And then they find, well, they can."

As well as art classes, the centre will hold pilates and yoga sessions, so members can focus on the mind and body.

There has been a long history of art at the site but the studio, which takes the place of an unused museum, has now given the classes somewhere permanent to take place.

Director Robert Wallis said: "There has been painting in this complex for more than 20 years but the classes were constantly moving.

"We moved into a cellar, another cellar, and then upstairs."

These venues were often dark and ill-suited for artistic work, so the group asked the Manor Trust charity, which runs the site, if it could use the facilities at the Sternberg Centre.

Manor House agreed and helped the group make the building fit for purpose.

After that it was down to fundraising and

Directors: From left, Lizzie Sturm, Nikki van der Zyl and Michael Brown will be helping to run the classes at the Sternberg Centre donations, as well as a £5,000 grant from an art trust, to get the facilities up and running.

Work will be displayed regularly at the Art Stables, which can be viewed by members of the public at open days such as the one taking place this Sunday.

The new studio hopes not only to be a centre of art but also, by being close to a synagogue and having its own cafe, aims to bring the community together.

Those interested in trying out the facilities should visit the centre between 11am and 4pm.

FAMILY ANNOUNCEMENTS

Journalists' union leader dies aged 60

By Koos Couvee

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

A JOURNALIST, who had an illustrious career working for a number of north London newspapers before rising to head a journalists' union, has died at the age of 60.

Charlie Harris, who started his career as a trainee reporter at the Palmers Green and Southgate Gazette in 1973, died from bowel and liver cancer at St Luke's Hospice, in Harrow, on Saturday.

Mr Harris worked on local newspapers and magazines in north London, Buckinghamshire and Hertfordshire between 1973 and 2006.

After his spells at the Palmers Green paper and the Enfield Gazette in the 1970s and 1980s, he joined the Enfield Independent's owners Newsquest in 1989.

He rose to become editor of the Hendon Times, the Borehamwood Times and the Watford Free Observer - and after leaving the Watford paper in 2006 became involved with the National Council for the Training of Journalists.

Mr Harris, from Woodlands, North Harrow, was a member of the Chartered Institute of Journalists for four decades and was only the second person since the institute was founded in 1894 to be elected president twice, first in 1991 and again in February last year.

Colin Fenn, 63, of Saxon Way, Oakwood, who worked with Mr Harris at the Palmers Green and Southgate Gazette during the 1970s, told the Advertiser: "Charlie was a lovely guy and absolutely precise in everything he did. He was of the old school of journalists, he would always triple-check everything."

"He was a true perfectionist. Many journalists I have spoken to over the years have said they owed their careers to Charlie."

"We always used to get his Christmas card quite early in December. Last month we did not. His death comes as a terrible shock."

The CioJ described his death as "great loss to the institute".

And NCTJ chief executive Joanne Butcher said: "Charlie was committed to professional journalism training and editorial standards and is a great loss to journalism and journalism training."

"He will be very much missed by me and my team, who knew him and appreciated his loyalty, kindness and good humour."

The funeral will take place at St Matthew's Roman Catholic church in Northwood on Tuesday at 11am.

The service will be followed by interment at Carpenders Park Lawn Cemetery in Watford. A reception will be held at The Harrow Hotel, in Pinner Road, Harrow, afterwards.

It was Mr Harris's wish that donations be made to St Luke's Hospice rather than flowers. His family has set up a JustGiving page at www.justgiving.com/CharlieHarris

Mr Harris is survived by two sisters, Susan Abbott and Pam Hedderman.

Much missed: Charlie Harris, who started his newspaper career in Palmers Green, died at the weekend

Five Ways to Beat the Bubble

The talk of a housing bubble is undoubtedly making potential purchasers nervous. After all, no one wants to plough their life savings into a house that might drop in value over the next few years and struggle to return to its current, premium price.

However, with property as unpredictable as buses, there's no guarantee that the bubble will burst – it could keep inflating and cautious house hunters could end up being left behind, or having to pay even more for the same house next year. Here's five ways to try and avoid losing out:

1. Make it location proof. A popular location will always attract top prices. In good times, buyers will be prepared to pay more; if the bubble bursts, the best postcodes will still attract the most interest.
2. On the up. If you have good local knowledge, you could choose an area that is on the up but still has room for improvement. That way, five years down the line, the houses will be even more desirable and valuable – and should outweigh any negative movement in the market.
3. Do your homework. Check out the local schools – even if you're not looking for school places, any changes to OFSTED ratings over the last few years are an indication that the school is improving...and the area will quickly follow.
4. Transport links. Is the area on a good train and/or bus route? Are there any plans to improve transport links in the future? Any whiff of a new Tube stop or improved services will send house prices soaring and increase the desirability of your property.
5. Roll your sleeves up. Choose a property that needs extensive upgrading. Although many houses have the cost of renovation built into the price tag, there is still money to be made if you maximise space and achieve a fantastic finish.

Of course, you might decide to play the waiting game and see what happens in the next year. If prices stabilise, you might well be able to save some money, but as for bagging a bargain in London – remember that prime properties in prime postcodes will always be in demand.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.

2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.

To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.

3. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:

- (a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
- (b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or
- (c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.

4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.

5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.

6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.

7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.

8. All gross advertising rates (except classified line and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.

9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.

10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.

11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.

12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.

13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

(1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.

(2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.

14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect of an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.

15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.

16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.

17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.

18. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers

Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.

Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category

All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors.

We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.

Lifting the gloom: Kyle Walker expects Tottenham to bounce back from their FA Cup exit

WALKER AIMS TO BANISH CUP WOE

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

KYLE WALKER is confident that Tottenham Hotspur can put their FA Cup disappointment behind them by maintaining their good recent run of form in the Premier League this weekend.

Spurs had won three and drawn the other one of their four matches prior to their 2-0 defeat at Arsenal in the third round of the cup – a sequence of results which has seen them climb back up into sixth place in the table, just two points adrift of the top four.

And, with a home game against struggling Crystal Palace to look forward to on Saturday, England right-back Walker is optimistic that they will be able to return to winning ways.

“We have got to pick ourselves up,” he said. “We have a big game on Saturday, a London derby, and we need to get the three points because we have been fantastic in the league.

“It was disappointing and frustrating to lose to the local rivals, but we showed a lot of character. We kept going. We have gone to the Emirates previously and it has been higher than 2-0.”

Meanwhile, Lewis Holtby is adamant that Tim Sherwood will prove to be a success during his time as head coach of Spurs.

Although Sherwood has no previous managerial experience at first-team level, Holtby does not believe that this will prove to be a hindrance and feels that his knowledge of the club will help him to make a positive impact at White Hart Lane.

“He knows the club inside out,” Holtby said. “He has been here as a player and manager for the development team. He knows the club, his style of play is a very good idea and he likes to play attacking football.

“We have the team capable of doing this, it’s just a matter of adapting to that now. The things he has tried to bring to us, they are really working.”

■ Tottenham captain Michael Dawson was delighted to celebrate the 400th appearance of his career in style by leading the side to a 2-1 win at Manchester United on New Year’s Day.

Goals from Emmanuel Adebayor and Christian Eriksen put Spurs in control and, although Danny Welbeck pulled one back, the visitors held on to record their second successive victory at Old Trafford.

“It was a great day, a great performance and a great result,” Dawson said. “I thought that we were fantastic from back to front.

“We had to show character at 2-1 because United had the momentum, but we dug deep and showed the spirit we have in the dressing room. The club had to wait 23 years to win at Old Trafford, and now we’ve won two in two.”

Disappointment for Tottenham as their FA Cup hopes are crushed by Arsenal

By Chris Smith

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

THE promising start that Tim Sherwood has made to his time as head coach at Tottenham Hotspur came to an abrupt halt on Saturday with a 2-0 defeat at bitter rivals Arsenal in the third round of the FA Cup.

Although he has taken ten points from his four Premier League games in charge, the Spurs boss has not been able to translate that form into cup matches, with the side now out of both domestic competitions.

Despite the defeat there still appears to be an air of positivity around Spurs following Sherwood’s appointment.

The side are now playing a different system which has reaped rewards, especially going forward. Since the former midfielder took charge, Spurs have scored ten goals in six games – a vast contrast to the 15 goals in 16 Premier League games under former boss Andre Villas-Boas.

One of the players to benefit from Sherwood taking charge is striker Emmanuel Adebayor. The Togo international was frozen out under Villas-Boas but has appeared in every game under Sherwood, scoring four times.

However, Saturday’s defeat will raise questions about Sherwood’s preference for fielding a 4-4-2 formation – a system which has come under much debate in the modern game.

While it has seen success so far in the league, the formation struggled to work at Arsenal, with Spurs often outnumbered in the middle of the field – but, despite this, Sherwood does not believe he should have sacrificed a striker for another midfielder.

“They outnumbered us in the middle of the park but we outnumbered them out wide,” he said. “They can’t have it all ways. I think we were fine.

“We didn’t lose the game because we were outnumbered in the middle of the pitch.”

Santi Cazorla and Tomas Rosicky got the goals to seal a second away defeat in the north London derby for Spurs this season.

Sherwood feels that having to play so many matches in a short period of time made a difference to his team’s performance.

He said: “We showed we belong on the same field and in the same company as Arsenal.

“It has been six games in 17 days for us, and we probably have the smallest squad in the league with the amount of injuries we have had.

“We were fatigued. A little bit of sharpness was missing but it could have gone either way.”
